JULIAN BYRD — Manager

Probably no place on the coast offers the inducement for the young man of energy and industry as does central Oregon today. An empire stands on the threshold of an era of transformation. Central Oregon stands now as it did in the beginning and the congested centers of the over populated east are now beginning to realize that where rolls the Oregon also rolls virgin fields of great fertility. Railroads are now extending in several directions and before a very few years will have passed away there will be an influx of population into this now isolated district which will work out marvelous change.

Any young man of ordinary intelligence who will with diligence and industry pursue any well directed enterprise most any where within this great district can make himself independent.

Opportunities in this new country are on every hand. And these, will only multiply as the great work of development, which is now at hand, progress. In a young growing country the only limitation to the advancement of youth and that in his ambition. In old settled communities the ruts of trade and traffic have worn deep and the young man just starting on his career is confronted by this barrier which appear insurmountable. But in the new country it is different. It is easier, freer and the chance to operate along independent lines is much better.

The young man who would content himself to grind out the days of his existence in some subordinate clerical position in a great city is making a great mistake when the scope of his action can be made without limit if he is thoughtful enough to cast his lot somewhere within the great empire which is now ready to be thrown open to the world.—Prairie City Miner.

If a stranger happens to drop into your place of business to get a little information about the country, unlock the closet and bring out your skeleton at once. Tell him there are just a few men in town who want to run everything. If you have a business rival tell the stranger all about his weak points and with a sly wink give him to understand that he is a grafted and can't be trusted. But don't fail to impress him with the fact that you do business strictly on the square and that any business entrusted to you will receive the most careful attention.

If you have had any little difference up the street go in to all the details and tell how unreasonable the other fellow was. The stranger may begin to get nervous and manifest a desire to move on, but pour it into him, for if he should conclude to locate here, he will have all these things to learn and you will feel clear, after having given warning. Last, but not least, if you can't get your visitor interested in anything you may have for sale don't for a minute think of letting the other fellow get a chance at him. Your visitor will, if a man of good sense, leave you in utter disgust and look up an information bureau where the watchdog is of a more cheerful frame of mind but cherish the thought that you are a "knocker" of the first orders. It is worth something to do business.

The flighty lover is not much of a success. The race between the hare and tortoise teaches its lesson today, as it did 100 years ago. No one gets so little for his money as the flighty, timid advertiser.

What does the non-advertiser think when he picks up the newspaper from any live center and sees it full of ads; sees the most successful merchants, most liberal advertisers, too? In the United States today some $600,000,000 are spent for advertising; for promoting the sale of goods.

Advertising is salesmanship; the best kind the average business man or merchant can use.

Making a pleased customer is a good advertisement for any business. You have to advertise for the customer, though.

It was a trifle uncomfortable for roses, but then he saved car fare—New York Evening Journal.

Her Objection.
"You are not singing that beautiful song. I want to be an Angel," with the rest of us," said the teacher.
The little one shook her head.
"What's the use of telling a story about it?" she demanded. "I'm having enough trouble learning to play the piano without bothering with a harp." Chicago Post.

A WONDERFUL INVENTION.

It is interesting to note that fortunes are frequently made by the invention of articles of minor importance. Many of the more popular devices are those designed to benefit people and meet popular conditions, and one of the most interesting of these that has ever been invented is the Dr. White Electric Comb, patented Jan. 1. These wonderful combs positively cure dandruff, hair falling out, sick and nervous headaches, and when used with Dr. White's Electric Hair Brush are positively guaranteed to make straight hair curly in 25 days time. Thousands of these electric combs have been sold in the various cities of the Union, and the demand is constantly increasing. Our agents are rapidly becoming rich selling these combs. They positively sell on sight. Send for sample. Men's size 35c, ladies' 50c—(half price while we are introducing them.) The Dr. White Electric Comb Co., Decatur, Ill.

Neuralgia And Other Pain.

All pain in any disease is nerve pain, the result of a turbulent condition of the nerves. The stabbing, lacerating, darting, burning, agonizing pain that comes from the prominent nerve branches, or sensory nerves, is neuralgia, and is the "big brother" of all the other pains.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills rarely ever fail to relieve these pains by soothing these larger nerves, and restoring their tranquility.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills leave no bad after-effects, and are a reliable remedy for every kind of pain, such as headache, backache, stomachache, sciatica, rheumatism and neuralgia.

They also relieve Dizziness, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Car-Sickness, and Distress after eating.

Then I found relief almost immediately." FRED B. SWINNEY, Cashier 1st Natl. Bank, Atkinson, Ind.
